

Wednesday 26th September 2018
1830 for 1900 hours

OUR HERITAGE: BETTER SHIPPING FOR A BETTER FUTURE

Celebrating World
Maritime Day 2018

Jill Craigie Lecture Theatre
Roland Levinsky Building
University of Plymouth

World Maritime Day

The theme for World Maritime Day 2018 has been designated by the International Maritime Organisation as 'Our Heritage: Better Shipping for a Better Future'. It provides an opportunity to take stock and look back and consider current and future challenges for maritime transport. The aim is to maintain, continue and strengthen the contribution of maritime transport towards sustainable growth for the benefit of the world's population. World Maritime Day has been celebrated by local branches of maritime professional organizations, supported by the University of Plymouth' Marine Institute, since 2008.

If further details are required please contact:

Paul Wright 01752 405603 or Capt. Bob Hone 01752 586163.

There is limited free car parking on the University Campus after 1600 hrs.

Keynote Speaker

Richard Clayton

Chief Correspondent Lloyds List
Former Editor Fairplay International

Richard Clayton trained as a shipbroker and gained a Masters in International Shipping at the University of Plymouth. He commenced work as editor of market research with Fairplay Shipping Weekly in 1984 and stepped up to become Editor of Fairplay in 2007. Today Richard is Chief Correspondent with Lloyds List where he writes thought provoking, analytical insight pieces. He is a very experienced speaker delivering keynote speeches to conferences and at major shipping organization events.

